python
import time

start timing
start_time = time.time()

your code block to be timed

end timing
end_time = time.time()

calculate elapsed time
elapsed_time = end_time - start_time print("Elapsed time: ", elapsed_time, " seconds")

Below the code block, the AI explains: 'To use this program, simply replace the `# your code block to be timed` comment with the code you want to time. The program will output the elapsed time in seconds.' At the bottom of the chat area, there are icons for thumbs up/down, a trash icon, a 'Regenerate response' button, and icons for image, video, and file uploads. A footer at the very bottom reads: 'ChatGPT Feb 13 Version. Free Research Preview. Our goal is to make AI systems more natural and safe to interact with. Your feedback will help us improve.'
